CATCH THE NEXT

We engage faculty and staff through:

- A three-part experiential training sequence that is eligible for graduate credit at UT-Austin (see reverse)
- Open source, culturally relevant and innovative course materials
- Semester site visits by experienced practitioners and trainers
- Access to a national network of scholars, author and community mentors
- Monthly professional development webinars
- Opportunities for publication and research

We engage students through:

- a culturally-relevant curriculum across multiple courses (learning communities)
- holistic advising, personal counseling and mentorship
- leadership development and community engagement

Program Model

Faculty and Staff Training Sequence

Foundational Summit (Virtual)

May 25-26, 2021

This training models strategies for active learning and student success that can be used in the classroom and in program administration. Participants will come away with teaching and organizational frameworks, theoretical foundations, action plans, and materials for program development in the Fall. This training has been adapted for virtual delivery.

2-Day Fall Seminar
October 28-29, 2021

The professional development series continues with a focus on team-building, and troubleshooting issues encountered in the first weeks of the semester, and anticipating curriculum and program development for the spring.

2-Day Spring Seminar
March 31-April 1, 2022

The series continues with a focus on components. Workshops address content area curriculum and best practices for integration of student services and mentoring.
