Shairose Adtani

Teacher Education

“Develop a passion for learning. If you do, you will never cease to grow.”

-Anthony Angello

Shairose was born in 1980 and grew up in India. She attended Rosary Convent High School and St. Ann’s Degree College for Women. She is a devoted mother to a beautiful eight-year-old daughter. She moved to San Antonio four years ago and started attending San Antonio College in 2018. Shairose chose to become a teacher because she loves to inspire children and help them develop a passion for learning. She plans to transfer to The University of Texas at San Antonio to earn a bachelor’s degree in elementary education. Her aspiration is to teach and to make a difference in the lives of her students.

Education is the one thing no one can take away. She plans to devote her time and efforts to helping students realize their potential while making learning engaging and fun. The most important thing that she would like to focus on ensuring her students become good human beings. She will strive to make a difference in the lives of students so they will have a better quality of life, because a good education is a foundation to a better future.
