Lebone Mohloane

PSYCHOLOGY

“I’d rather regret the risks that didn’t work out than the chances I didn’t take at all.”

– Simon Biles

Lebone Mohloane is a 23-year-old international student from Vereeniging, South Africa. After graduating from high school, Lebone traveled the world as an au pair, staying with five different families in Hawaii, California, Virginia, Texas, and Barcelona, Spain. During the pandemic in 2020, Lebone began attending San Antonio College to further her education. Lebone is a psychology major, has appeared on the President’s List numerous times and received multiple scholarships. She is a member of the Phi Theta Kappa Honor Society and Psi Beta Honor Society. She is also the team captain of the San Antonio Speech and Debate Team and a member of the Texas Intercollegiate Forensics Association All-State Squad.

Outside of the classroom, Lebone likes making creative videos for her YouTube Channel, where she documents her experience as an international student in the United States. Lebone likes learning new languages and presently speaks four (Sesotho, Afrikaans, English, and Spanish) and is working on a fifth (Korean).

Lebone plans to graduate with her associate degree in May 2023 and transfer to a four-year university where she will complete her bachelor’s degree in psychology and help children with special needs.
