YMCA Partnership

St. Philip's College (SPC) partnered with the YMCA to offer swimming lessons to children in the SPC Kid's Academy in the William Allen Hudgins Gymnasium at SPC.

Hudgins volunteered during the summer for over 20 years teaching approximately 3000 children from the area how to swim during a time of segregation. He wanted to ensure all students had the opportunity to learn this life-saving skill.

During Summer 2024, swimming lessons for the community was offered for the first time in over 50 years.

Swimming Lessons at St. Philip's

St. Philip's College was one of the few places during the time of segregation where African Americans had access to community pools and swimming lessons. William Allen Hudgins, for whom the college health and wellness center is named, taught 3,000 Black children from San Antonio's Eastside how to swim.

This summer, St. Philip's College, part of the Alamo Colleges, hopes to teach many more children to swim through the Kids' Academy summer camps, which are in partnership with the YMCA.

St. Philip's College Director of Institutional Advancement Dr. Sharon Crockett-Ray shared her experience as a ten-year-old taking swim lessons with Hudgins.

"In 1969, my siblings and I used to walk to St. Philip's College in our swimwear carrying a towel and 75 cents our mom had given us to eat a hamburger and fries from the cafeteria. Coach Hudgins was a gentle giant, but he was serious about teaching us. I think he knew how important it was for us to learn how to swim. He even taught some kids how to be junior lifeguards," said Crockett-Ray.

Even today, differences in access to swimming lessons continue to be a barrier for African Americans. According to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, drowning death rates for Black Americans were 28% higher in 2021 than in 2019, and 63% of Black adults have never taken a swimming lesson. While segregation and lack of access are no longer barriers, the legacy of each still impacts the community.

Lessons will be held on campus in the William Allen Hudgins Health and Wellness Building from June 3 through July 26.

To learn more about the Kids' Academy and for a full schedule, visit (Alamo.edu/spc/experience-spc/campus-life/youth-programs/Kids-academy).

Emzy Harris, 10, grins as he kicks in the water alongside lifeguard Alexis Gonzales at St. Philip's College on Wednesday. Emzy was apprehensive and embarrassed until Gonzales assured him that people who are much older also haven't learned to swim. A new summer partnership with the YMCA has brought swim lessons back to campus after roughly 50 years.
Josie Norris/San Antonio Express-News

Kimberly Irving-Conaway, dean of academic services at St. Philip's College, introduces herself to a summer camper on Wednesday. Conaway said she wants to make swim lessons accessible to all who need them, a legacy of William Allen Hudgins, who taught thousands of children to swim there starting in the 1950s. The new summer partnership with the YMCA has brought the lessons back.

QUALITY ENHANCEMENT PLAN

QEP Focus Statement: Ethical Decision-Making is the ability to connect values and choices to actions and consequences.

Philosophy Faculty Leads:

Andrew Hill, Philosophy Professor

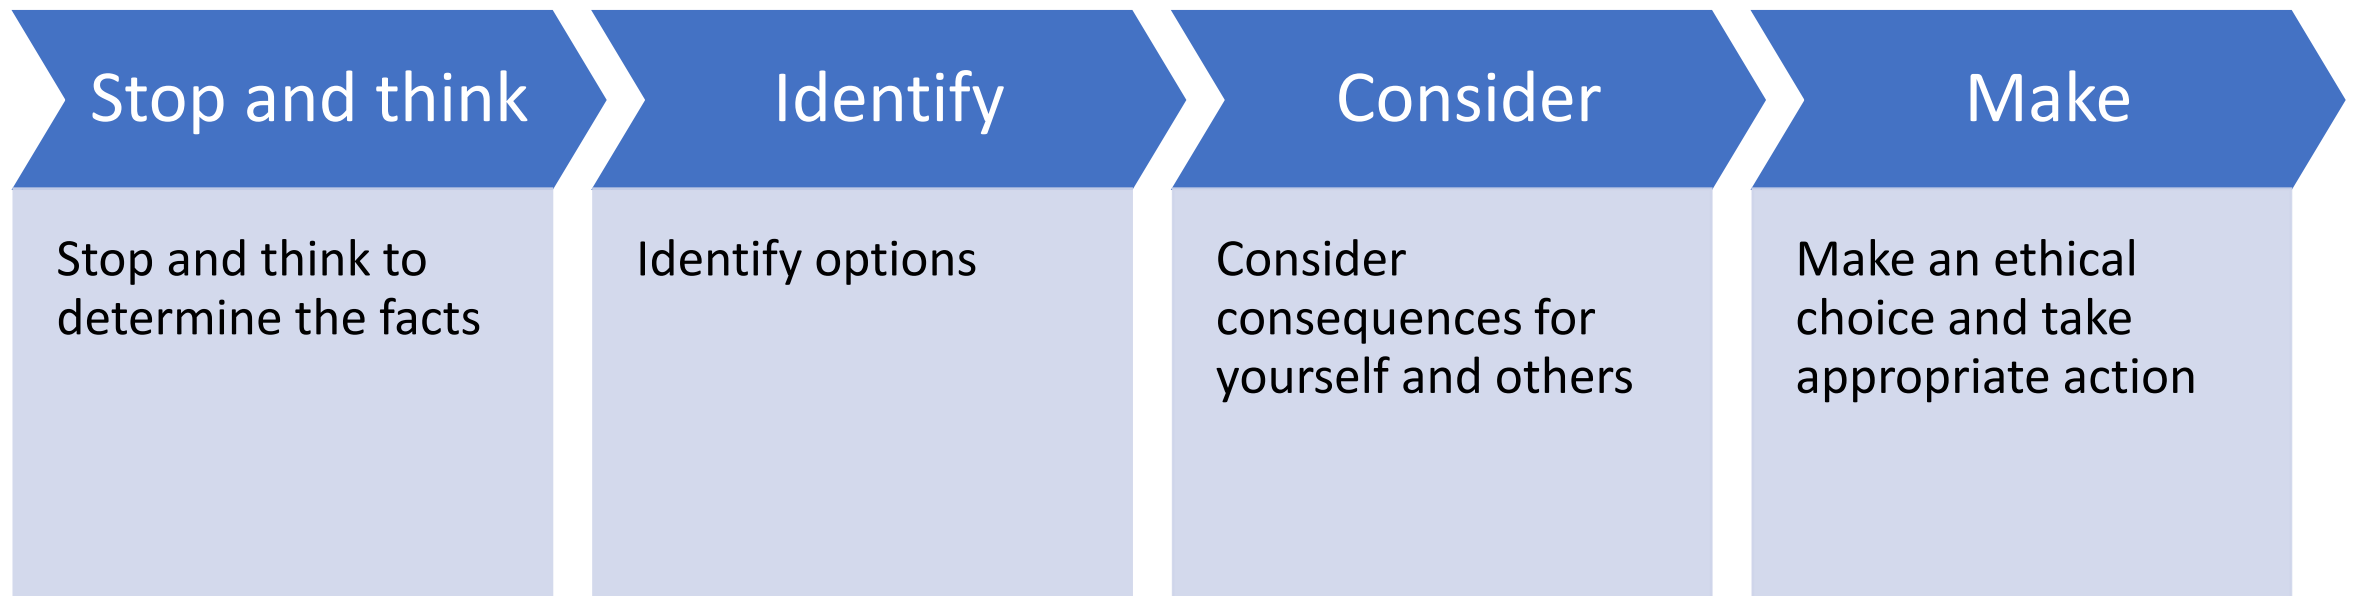

Dr. Jamie Hardy, Philosophy Instructor

QUALITY ENHANCEMENT PLAN (QEP): ETHICAL DECISION-MAKING

Process of Ethical Decision-Making

QUALITY ENHANCEMENT PLAN (QEP): ETHICAL DECISION-MAKING

Early Graduation Graduating Early or Abandoning Ship?

Grace is a second-year senator on her student government, and a junior at the university. She absolutely loves student government and has become very involved in the organization.

Grace has even adopted duties and volunteering for tasks that fall outside her position description. She has a lot of passion for the job and always moves her projects forward efficiently, collaborating well with other groups on campus.

Senior members of student government have told Grace that she is a valuable part of the organization, and have encouraged her to run again the next year.

QUALITY ENHANCEMENT PLAN (QEP): ETHICAL DECISION-MAKING

Early Graduation Graduating Early or Abandoning Ship?

With elections quickly approaching, Grace is considering running as a senior class senator. Grace is almost done with her major though, and anticipates graduating a quarter early. All members of student government must be active students, and graduation terminates membership in the organization.

If she wins the race for senator, she will only be able to participate for two quarters of her year-long commitment, leaving her seat empty in the spring. Transition to the newly elected student government occurs halfway through the spring quarter, so she would really only miss 5 or 6 weeks, but a missing senator impacts committee work and voting ratios, among many other things.

Grace knows that other members of student government would have to pick up some of her slack in the spring, and if they knew of her plans to graduate early, they would encourage her to find another way to participate. Grace loves senate though, also knows she would have to break the yearlong commitment she would make to the organization.

QUALITY ENHANCEMENT PLAN (QEP): ETHICAL DECISION-MAKING

QEP Focus Statement: Ethical Decision-Making is the ability to connect values and choices to actions and consequences.

Stop and think	Stop and think to determine the facts
Identify	Identify options
Consider	Consider consequences
Make	Make an ethical choice and take appropriate action

QUALITY ENHANCEMENT PLAN (QEP): ETHICAL DECISION-MAKING

Stop and think to determine the facts:

- Grace is a second-year student government senator, and a junior at the university.
- Grace is almost done with her major and anticipates graduating a quarter early.
- Grace is very passionate about her role in student government and wants to continue in that role during the next academic year.
- All members of student government must be active students, and graduation terminates membership in the organization.
- If Grace doesn't win the race for senator then there is no issue with graduating early and fulfilling the senator commitment.
- If Grace wins the race for senator;
 - She will only be able to participate for two quarters of her year-long commitment, leaving her seat empty in the spring.
 - Transition to the newly elected student government occurs halfway through the spring quarter, so Grace would really only miss 5 or 6 weeks.
 - She would have to break the year-long commitment she would make to student government.

QUALITY ENHANCEMENT PLAN (QEP): ETHICAL DECISION-MAKING

Identify Options:

- Run for senior class senator without disclosing her plans to graduate early.
- Graduate early and not run for senior class senator, but continue to volunteer and support student government as a volunteer.
- Graduate early, but continue to enroll in courses she does not need in the spring term and if elected, Grace can fulfill the year long senior class senator obligation.
- Not enroll in all the classes she needs as part of her major in the fall term to graduate early, complete coursework in the spring to graduate, thus taking an extra term to complete courses for her degree, and if elected, Grace can fulfill the year long senior class senator obligation.

QUALITY ENHANCEMENT PLAN (QEP): ETHICAL DECISION-MAKING

Consider Consequences:

- If elected as senior class senator, and Grace graduates early, this would put the student government in a bind for the spring term to be able to fulfill committee work, voting ratios, and other senate obligations. Doing so would also deny the opportunity of another student to gain experience as class senator.
- If Grace chooses to graduate early, and not run for senior class senate, student government will miss her expertise and passion in moving projects forward, but Grace would still be able to volunteer and support student government in other ways.
- Grace could choose not to graduate early, or enroll in unnecessary courses in the spring, so she can fulfill the obligations of senior class senator.

QUALITY ENHANCEMENT PLAN (QEP): ETHICAL DECISION-MAKING

The ethical choice and appropriate action:

- Be transparent and inform student government members as well as student government university staff that she plans to graduate early and of her desire to run for senior class senate. Grace should graduate early as planned and not run for the senior class senator position, but continue to support student government wherever possible during her final fall term at the university.
